Red One Medical and Stryker team up to deliver best-in-class medical devices to America's military veterans

Savannah, GA – September 11, 2018 – Red One Medical proudly announces that it is collaborating with leading medical technology company, Stryker, to provide high quality medical innovations to the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA). The collaboration will enable Red One Medical to offer Stryker's products in the spine, joint replacement, trauma and extremity categories to advance healthcare for veterans. This recent alignment allows the VA to purchase these Stryker products via a Service Disabled Veteran Owned Small Business (SDVOSB).

With over 70 years of combined medical device experience, Red One has a proven track record of meeting the needs of surgeons and patients by bringing together VA facilities and medical technology companies like Stryker to provide a higher level of patient care, customized solutions and improved patient outcomes.

Philanthropy is also at the core of Red One's mission to support veterans and its community. Red One donates a portion of its profits to three organizations: Paradox Sports, an adaptive sports and recreation organization; One More Wave, a non-profit that helps injured veterans go surfing; and the Travis Manion Foundation, a foundation that empowers veterans and their families. Partnering with Stryker will increase Red One Medical's ability to provide veterans with quality care and give back to their military families, too.
