

RED ONE MEDICAL

Red One Medical proudly announces its new collaboration with leading pharmaceutical company, AstraZeneca. This collaboration enables Red One Medical to provide the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) with AstraZeneca's high quality pharmaceutical products, advancing healthcare for veterans. Now the VA can purchase the following products via a Service-Disabled Veteran Owned Small Business (SDVOSB):

- Seroquel IR (quetiapine) immediate release tablets
- Seroquel XR (quetiapine fumarate) extended release tablets
- Crestor (rosuvastatin calcium) tablets
- Pulmicort Respules (budesonide inhalation suspension)

With over 90 years of combined medical solutions and contracting experience, Red One Medical has a proven track record of meeting the needs of the VA and our nation's veterans. This collaboration will allow Red One Medical to provide a reliable and consistent supply of branded drugs to the VA and will help ensure that America's veterans receive uninterrupted care.

"As a combat veteran who has seen the effects of battlefield trauma firsthand, my mission as Red One Medical's CEO is to provide America's military and veterans with leading medical care. I strive to improve the lives and health of America's military and veteran patients through the innovative products that Red One Medical provides. I am proud to announce our collaboration with AstraZeneca which increases Red One Medical's ability to provide these products to the VA," said Charles Pollak, CEO and President of Red One Medical.
